About the juror: Joseph Winterhalter

Artist Joseph Winterhalter's large-scale paintings present beautiful, reflective surfaces that initially appear to have been scraped raw or peeled repeatedly to expose previous layers of information that suggest a prior history. With intellectual precision and a keen sense of materials, Winterhalter's paintings merge past and present histories which manifest new information that is still evolving and in the process of revealing itself.

Winterhalter attended DAAP at the University of Cincinnati from 1984-87, and in 1991 received his BFA in Painting from Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. In 1993, he attended the graduate program in painting and drawing at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA.

His paintings, drawings and prints have been featured at the Weston Art Gallery, the Michael Solway Gallery, and Clay Street Press, among others. Nationally, he has exhibited at venues including the BBAC (Birmingham, Michigan); the Baltimore Contemporary Print Fair at the Baltimore Museum of Art; and the Editions/Artist's Books Fair, New York. He is currently preparing for an exhibition at Firecat Projects, Chicago.

His work is in the permanent collection of the Cincinnati Art Museum and private collections internationally.
